As our final year comes to an end
we pause to reflect upon the many memories which have brought us tears and joy.
We came to this place together to learn, to grow, to share.
Time and space may separate us

Goodbye &

The changing times at Southbridge High School are reflected in the lives of two amazing teachers, Mr. William Rucki and Mr. Rick Silver. Both have devoted their lives to assisting the students of Southbridge High School.

What will you miss the most about Southbridge High School?
The students and staff.

What advice would you give to new teachers coming to Southbridge High?
Be patient and be prepared for changes.

Describe you experience at SHS in one word.
Challenging.

Good Luck!

We would like them to know that they will be greatly missed and fondly remembered by everyone. They have both taught and inspired the students of SHS to move forward and that anything is possible if you put your mind to it. It is with great honor the Class of 2011 dedicates this yearbook to them.

What will you miss the most about Southbridge High School?
Coming into work and interacting with people on a day by day basis because I found these people to be interesting and unique.

What advice would you give new teachers coming to Southbridge High?
Keep an open mind and a positive attitude; that what they do does make a difference.

Describe you experience at SHS in one word.
Journey.

Class History

By IRENE GAVIDIA and KEISHA TORRES

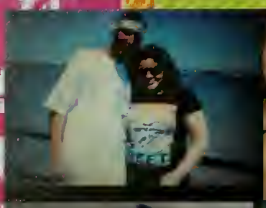
In September of 2007, we entered Southbridge High as the new freshman class. We started the year with class elections, electing Katie Lora as class President, Cole Carron as Vice President, Emily Collazo as Treasurer, and Nicole Renaud as Secretary. With the overwhelming activities of the Thanksgiving Rally and its challenging theme of "Dancing Through the Decades," our advisors Miss Currie and Ms. Rotondo helped us put on a "Thrilling," skit winning third place. Our Thanksgiving float was a complete disaster; it was not well prepared and it fell apart on the way to the bonfire. Our fund raisers, flower seeds and bulbs and The Entertainment Books did not exceed our advisors expectations. At the end of the year, our first class trip to The Boston Science Museum left the males of our class more informed than they wanted to be with the miracle of birth.

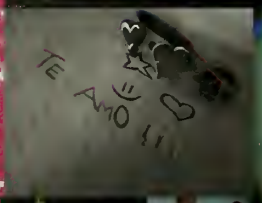
We returned in the fall of 2008 with the renewal of class elections, once again electing Katie Lora as President, Shawn Perrin as Vice President, Emily Collazo as Treasurer, and Torey Downer as Secretary. The year flew by and before we knew it, it was time for the Thanksgiving Rally again. With the theme being "Disney" we took on Peter Pan, winning us third place in the skit, and first place in the poster; our school spirit showed for the first time at Southbridge High. In all the spirit, people decided to decorate our bathroom with bomb threats, which made Mr. Bishop create "Potty Patrol," making Ms. Littleton head-chief in charge.

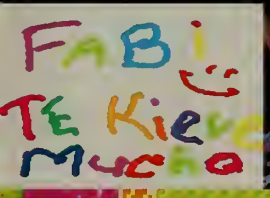
In 2009 with high hopes and our new E-Board: Katie Lora as President, Caroline Macharia as Vice President, Shawn Perrin as Secretary, Marlene Reyes as Treasurer, and Alyssa Chernisky as Historian, we entered into our junior year. "Under the Sea" was our challenge for the Thanksgiving Rally. Not knowing what to choose until the day before the deadline, we chose the movie "Shark Tale" which led us to winning first place in the skit category. During one of our assemblies, the class of 2012 had the audacity to say they had the best MCAS scores, when Mr. Bishop crushed their spirits stating they did not exceed the scores of the class of 2011. It was our year to put on prom. Our unique committee came up with "Fire & Ice" as the theme. Stressed out and overwhelmed by the Senior class at the time over the theme we had chosen, we still managed to pull off an amazing prom. Just before the year came to an end there was a time of grief when our class experienced a tragic loss with the passing of one of our class mates, Jennawe Rolfe, who will always be in our hearts.

Finally entering our senior year in 2010 with our new and final class officers, Katie Lora as President, Shawn Perrin as Vice President, Jeffrey Boucher as Secretary, Irene Gavidia as Historian and Marlene Reyes as Treasurer, we knew nothing could bring us down. The new school year brought a new tradition: the high school's first Homecoming dance and activities took place. Once again, we took first place in skit at the Thanksgiving Rally with the theme "Musicals" and our choice "The Wizard of Oz." During the year we experienced a time of sorrow with the tragic loss of Makayla Packard, who touched many hearts throughout the school. On top of all the stress, we also had college and scholarship deadlines approaching, luckily we had help from our guidance counselors to get things done right and on time. We all had senioritis and were anxiously awaiting our final events, like our last prom with the theme "Umbrella," our class trip to The Spirit of Boston and most importantly, graduation. Our class will be the 50th graduating class of Southbridge High School.

We spent four years waiting for this moment and are finally here. Even through all the struggles and stress we faced, we still made it. Although we all say we are happy to finally walk out of Southbridge High and move on with our lives, we all sit here and reminisce over the memories as if they happened yesterday and wish they would never end.







Yo nunca supe que tenía un sueño, hasta que ESE sueño fuiste tú.

Prophecy

The year is 2031 and the former class advisors, Mrs. Laura Gaboury and Miss Courtney Currie are gathering at the new, high-tech Southbridge High School to decorate the newly indestructible gym for the Class of 2011 reunion. As they are finishing up the final touches, Marlene Reyes storms in telling whoever is around what to do and how to do it when she ends up losing her balance and falls on her butt. Anthony Perez lifts her up and tells her that's what she gets for always trying to be in control. They start to hear a familiar laugh, which they knew could only be from Keisha Torres, who was hiding in the corner as if she was Casper the unfriendly ghost. Then Keisha says, "I hope nothing gets stolen at this reunion" and laughs as Matt Rabbett walks in. While that is happening, Jose De Leon talks to Mr. Niebel about what can be done in order to transform the gym floor into a dance floor and if he needs any other special errands to be done. With the help of Jonathan Jimenez, they figure out how to transform the wooden gym floor into a rump shaking disco dance floor by the click of a button. Orlando Rodriguez and Mario Munoz stride through the gym door demanding that the menu better consist of more than chicken, chicken O's, chicken tenders, chicken fries, popcorn chicken, spicy chicken, chicken patties, chicken noodle soup, chicken wings, chicken parm, chicken nuggets, and chicken pot pie. Head Chef, Arianna Ortiz, and her assistants, Carmela Apolinar, Katherine Rodriguez, Elizabeth Toro, and Yismary Rojas, assures everyone that their culinary skills are way more advanced than just chicken. Meanwhile, Areilis Montes, now a nationwide photographer, sets up to start taking pictures of the reunion.

As Edward Demers and Gordon Ansah enter the gym kicking a soccer ball they accidentally hit Sasha Willet who is now a teacher at Tantasqua, Amber Shunaman sees what is going on and she snatches the ball away saying that it is not safe, because she knows best. All the while, Alyssa Chernisky and Jessica Rivera are complaining about how hungry they are and need food to satisfy them. As the food finally begins to be served, torrential downpours start to occur, and Caroline Macharia barges into the gym with shouts of complaint about her million dollar wig getting ruined by the rain and her hair beginning to frizz. Fortunately she has another one in her purse and she takes off one wig to put on another. Eric Lincoln sees her hair and begins to argue with her about his hair being better, smoother, and silkier just like Justin Bieber's. Then, Irene Gavidia walks in with her police uniform on looking around for her husband. When she can't find him she snaps her fingers and everybody notices Jose "Little" Rosario, who is now the coach of the Patriots football team, running through the crowd. As the rain pounds on the roof, there is a huge commotion and everyone looks up to see Shawn Perrin descending from the ceiling with his back up singers Fabiola Acevedo, Felicia Aponte, and Krystal Perez singing Shawn's latest Broadway hit, "My Love Costs Everything ." Josh MacNeil, Aaron Proulx, Matt Higgins, and Tyrell Lewis all become jealous that Shawn has all the spotlight and attempt to perform a mid air back flip. As Aaron Proulx looks away, they accidentally drop Josh MacNeil on his arm, breaking it again. Luckily, Dayna Larson, an accomplished nurse, bachelor Jeff Boucher, a wealthy surgeon, are there to tend to his wounds while Nicole Renaud and Nathalie Reyes prescribe pain medication. Unfortunately, they end up giving him the wrong prescription making him go crazy.

All the while, Wander Christian is making his way through the crowd dancing with whoever is in front of him to try to get the scoop on who is still single and would like to go out with him after the reunion. Miss America, Katie Lora, enters with her tiara on her head and her trusted entourage behind her which consists of Torey Downer, her make-up artist and hair stylist, and Kaitlynn Lemire, her financial consultan. In a split second, linebacker Tavaughn Garcia steals her tiara and starts strutting his goods. As the party continues Gino Vitoritto brags to Justin Daly and Jeff Wonderlie who now have their own talk show called "Fresh Boyz" that he was on the last season of "Jersey Shore" and that he franchised the quote "Hipppogrendlelandmine" which is a mix of a hippopotamus, a girl, and a dog. Jaime Rodriguez, who was known in high school for being a descendent of a pterodactyl shows up with Chris Santos and is eager to know what everybody has been up to. At this time, everyone stops to hear Samantha Garcia belt out the National Anthem with Billy Savankham on snares, Erica White playing the clarinet, and Dominique Chapman soloing on the flute, as the Marines, Angel Velez, Josh Colon, and Corey Garceau enter the room after being over seas for more than 15 years. Sadiel Hernandez sees the microphone alone and starts singing "Dale...Dale, Don Dale" to get the party going. Chris Ortiz immediately goes to the dance floor and starts dancing with Natalie Hernandez. While everybody else hits the dance floor, Taylor Calcutta and Luis Alicia notice someone that they do not recognize. The girl has dark brown hair, green eyes, light skin complexion, heels, and a tattoo on her right arm saying "I ♥ Biology." When they look closer they are surprised to see that the girl is Lauryn Larson. Meanwhile, Jenna Lee Rosario, Emily Collazo, and Karina Alvarado converse about the latest fashion: flip flops for all seasons. Jenna replies that the one and only Crystal Novia who can't stand wearing sneakers founded the company with the help of Sarah Daigneault, the fashion designer, Sarah Maldonado, the promoter, and Tiha Wood, the fashion model. Eunice Gonzalez overhears the conversation and tells Dominique Rivera that fitted hats and sneakers is where it's at.

On the opposite side of the room Wilfredo Velez, Luis Belfort, and Irvin Vazquez find this to be an opportune moment to promote their new Gentlemen's Club called "Mira Gata" which can be found in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and Guam. All the while, Antonio Lopez and Benjamin Gonzalez are showing off their new tattoos and piercing courtesy of Alexandra Gonzalez's established body arts parlor, "Ink-Rated." Damian Carlos becomes overly excited about their tattoos and exclaims to his wife, Kasi Sanchez, that he wants another one. She does not agree and therefore they begin to argue. Gordon Tam, Jeremy Santiago, Luis Santana, and Edwin Gonzalez all try to get people to quiet down for the last and final performance of the night. As Lauren Boutillette, J. K. Cross and Shayla Mercado take the stage to perform the class song, "I Believe," Brittany Teixeira, Sheila "La-La" Sanchez and Nicole Sowa finally show up, late as usual. Everyone takes their seats and the performance begins. After a night of surprises Sam Peck shouts, 'Thank you Jennawe Rolfe for always looking over us like a guardian angel!" The class of 2011 finally comes together and laughs at the idea of how the other reunions will turn out. It really is nice to be number one twice.

Isn't it nice to

Be #1 twice!

OLD SCHOOL

THROUGH THE AGES

Southbridge Schools

THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE REPORTS

The following excerpts and photos were gleaned from early annual school committee reports, previous high school yearbooks, and The Southbridge Sesquicentennial Historical Album.

1736: THE FIRST SCHOOL

The first school had been held in James Deneson's barn. The students were taught by Mary Manning. Ten years later, the first dedicated school building was erected nearby.

1800: SUMMER SCHOOL

There were sixty pupils listed as attending school in the summer of 1800. It was taught by Charlotte Plimpton and it is said that she traveled from Medford to Southbridge by horseback, taking from morning to evening to arrive at her teaching destination.

1837: FIRST HIGH SCHOOL

The town voted to build the first town hall with quarters for a high school on the second floor. It was to be "two stories high, the walls of which were to be brick, and to finish the lower story for town business. The Town Hall/High School building was built to be seventy-five feet in width and one hundred and nineteen feet in length.

1858: THE CLOTHING OF CHILDREN:

"It is hoped that the committee will not be transcending the duties of their office in saying a few words. They have seen little girls and young misses clothed in a manner sadly at fault... they look prettier in the eyes of their mothers thus dressed than they would if clad with more abundant and more equally distributed apparel. But mothers are earnestly requested to pander and weigh the consequences which their slavish pursuit of fashion and unrestrained gratification of a false taste in this matter produce; this very style of dress is exposing the objects of their affection to disease, weakness of body and mind and early death."

1862-63: ON THE CIVIL WAR

"It inspires hope for our beloved country, amid the bloodshed and desolation of civil war, to see the like interests extending its influence in all loyal States, and even in the rebellious, soon as our victorious armies take possession of the proper fields there for development." One year later the committee reported..."Saddest comes the record of what death has done. George F. Fishe, Walter B. Cutting, Homer Smith, Albert O. Blanchard and Charles N. Stetson. The first four of these met death while in the service of their country the last while attending the fall term."

1867-68: RE-ARRANGEMENT OF SCHOOLS

Overcrowding and poor conditions of school houses brought about a desire to advance the standard of all the schools in town. Earlier it was written that, "It is the universal testimony of experienced men, that a single teacher cannot take charge of more than fifty scholars at a time. Up until this point, all courses were taught by one teacher for all levels. Courses included were, Algebra, Arithmetic, Geometry, Latin, English Grammar, Philosophy, Botany, Geography, Chemistry, Bookkeeping, Reading, Spelling, Composition, Declamation, and Music.

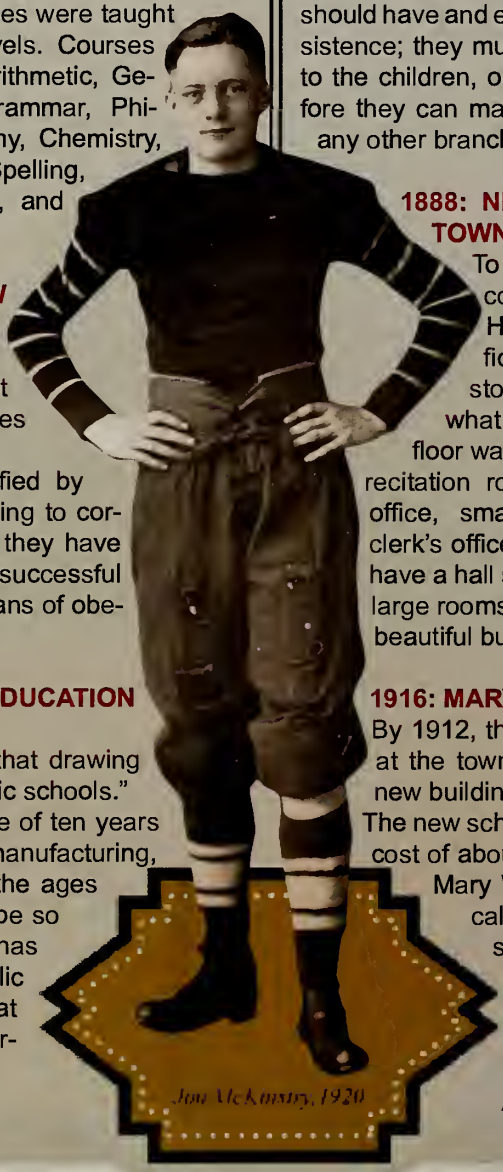
1868-69: SOME NEW SCHOOL REGULATIONS

- The town abolished all school districts and set the schools up by grades rather than ungraded.
- "Teachers will be justified by the committee in resorting to corporal punishment after they have made faithful but unsuccessful use of other proper means of obedience.

1871-77: NEW STATE EDUCATION LAWS

- "The law now enjoins that drawing be taught in all the public schools."
- "No Child under the age of ten years shall be employed in manufacturing, and no child between the ages of ten and fifteen shall be so employed, unless he has attended some public or private school, for at least three months during the year."



1875-76: THE FOREIGN ELEMENT

"The large foreign element in our schools renders teaching very difficult, requires that the teachers should have and exercise great patience and persistence; they must teach the English language to the children, or learn French themselves before they can make much progress in teaching any other branch of learning."

1888: NEW HIGH SCHOOL, NEW TOWN HALL

To save money, it was voted to continue to combine both the High School and the town offices in one building. "The corner stone was laid on July 4, 1888 for what is today's town hall. The first floor was planned for a classroom, two recitation rooms, library, superintendents office, small hall, memorial hall, town clerk's office, etc. The second floor was to have a hall seating 1,250 persons and four large rooms. It was referred to as the most beautiful building in Massachusetts."

1916: MARY E. WELLS HIGH SCHOOL

By 1912, the overcrowding of classrooms at the town hall led to the proposal of a new building dedicated to the high school. The new school was completed in 1916 at a cost of about $42,000. It was named after Mary Wells, a former teacher in local schools and a member of the school committee in the 1890's. In June of 1924 an additional 16 rooms were added, presumably parallel to the Pine Street side of the building. Although much discussed, the original plans to construct a gymnasium under the auditorium never came to fruition.

1927: COLE TRADE HIGH SCHOOL

Cole Trade High School was built in 1927 as a memorial to Robert Henry Cole, co-founder of the American Optical Company - a gift from his daughter, Ella M. Cole. From 1911 until Cole Trade opened, classes in trade arts had been held in the town hall.

1938: FLOOD! HURRICANE!

Southbridge was really put to the test when a flood and hurricane struck in September 1938. Since the fire alarm system was damaged, Boy Scouts were placed from dark to daybreak at nine emergency locations to bring fire information to the station. It was during this disaster that much property was damaged. The steeples of the Universalist and the Congregational churches toppled, never to be replaced and "a beautiful pine grove" was destroyed on Dresser Street. This parcel was eventually cleared of debris and made into the Dresser Street playing fields.

1961: NEW HIGH SCHOOL

The present Southbridge High School was built to incorporate the old Cole Trade building as one of its wings. Laboratory, gymnasium and library facilities were added along with a host of new classrooms making this a new and modern school in 1961.

It is in this special edition yearbook that we celebrate the past fifty years of student life here at Southbridge High School.

School Cancellation Signal

During the school year 1962-63, whenever weather conditions are such that school authorities decide to cancel sessions for the elementary and junior high students for the day, there will be two sets of eight blasts of the fire siren at 6:45 A.M.

Senior high school students will be expected to attend on all regular school days excepting when the weather makes travel impossible. In this case, there will be three sets of blasts of the fire siren instead of two.

Breaking Ground

It was a cold and windy day as students, officials and local dignitaries stepped through piles of dirt and rock and headed toward the seats placed in the middle of a recently razed field. Scott Lazo, the School Building Committee Chairman, approached the podium and welcomed everyone to the Southbridge High School/Middle School groundbreaking ceremony. The mood was happy and excited as each of the speakers who took to the stage described all that this project means to them and the town. Massachusetts School Building Authority Executive Director Katherine Craven expressed a feeling of joy after what were many hard months of pulling the financial aspect of the project together. "There were many stumbling blocks, but the MSBA finally approved funding for the project in January, and the town council did so in February." Steven Lazo, the Town Council Chairman, spoke highly of everyone who came together to make the new schools possible. Many wanted to convey thanks to the recently retired superintendent, Dale Hanley, for all her hard work, while the new superintendent, Eric Ely joked about what perfect timing it was for him to move into the head post. Bill Bishop and Amy Allen, respective principals of the junior and senior high schools, were thrilled with the soon to be facilities and looked forward to all the new opportunities the students would receive from the larger space and the technologically advanced design. "The new building will provide additional chances for students to thrive in the classroom, agreed State Representative Geraldo Alicea, a 1982 graduate of Southbridge High School. A wave of applause broke out as Massachusetts State Senator, Richard Moore, who's been involved from the ground floor, congratulated the town on a job well done! The school has been designed by Tappé Associates, of Boston, and is being built by Consigli Construction, of Milford.

Present at the ceremony was a veritable Who's Who of Southbridge.

School officials with state and local dignitaries formally mark the beginning of the new school project.

Student officers dig in at the groundbreaking ceremony.

SITE DESIGN

The proposed building is located on a town owned parcel of land off of Torrey Road. The development of the site will include the new school along with an access road, parking and athletic fields. The design currently calls for three multi-purpose fields for soccer, field hockey and lacrosse as well as a softball and baseball field. There are also three tennis courts proposed for the site.

The project will include improvements to Torrey Road for improved vehicular access to the site. Some of the project utilities will be routed down the hill from the site to the town's waste water treatment plant.

BUILDING DESIGN

The proposed school will be approximately 200,000 square feet on three floors and will house grades 6 through 12. The proposed design capacity for the facility is 1,050 students. The school is organized to have two entrances, one for middle school students and one for high school students. There will be separate administration areas for the middle and high school and each school will have its own principal and administrative staff.

Large spaces that will be used by the public including the gym, auditorium and cafeteria are located close to the entrances and to the parking area to allow for community use of the building after hours. The new auditorium accommodates an audience of 650 people and the gym allows for 500 spectators for a game or two practice basketball courts when the bleachers are closed.

The new school will have two distinct and separate classroom wings to house grades 6-8 and 9-12 in different locations. The middle school is located on three floors with each grade having its own floor. The high school is located on the two upper floors in a dedicated high school wing. Core curriculum spaces, along with art, music, drama, vocational technology and computer classrooms will be shared by all students. A shared library media center will be located between the middle school and the high school classroom wings.

The building will include sustainable features such as superior energy performance due to high efficiency boilers and sophisticated controls for heat and lighting, reduced water use through the installation of low flow plumbing fixtures and the use of recycled and renewable building materials.
